Money Problems Worsening

Milliken Asks New Tax Hike

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Gov. William Milliken asked the legislature today for a temporary 50 per cent increase in Michigan income taxes to help solve ever-mounting state money problems.

Revising his earlier proposals, Milliken called for a 1.3 per cent hike in the present 2.6 per cent personal income tax, effective for six months beginning next Jan. 1.

On July 1, 1972, the tax rate would drop to 3.6 per cent, leaving the 1 per cent increase the governor recommended three months ago.

Corresponding increases, along with mid-1972 decreases, would affect corporations and financial institutions.

EVEN SOONER

In the Senate, however, where Republicans dominate Democrats, GOP Leader Robert VanderLaan of Kentwood, suggested that the tax increase might come even sooner than the Jan. 1, 1972 date Milliken wants. Milliken told lawmakers in his latest message that "this is no time to abandon plans to hold off the impact of new taxes for 1971 to allow a full year of economic recovery for businesses and individuals."

VanderLaan said, however, that he believed Milliken would not veto a tax bill that put the higher rates into effect earlier than Jan. 1.

VanderLaan said also that a majority of the 19 Republican senators seem opposed to any income tax increase, but that he believed they would find one "less painful" than raising money in other ways.

An income tax bill, as well as an alternate tax package being put together by Senate Taxation Chairman Harry DeMaso, R-Battle Creek, are to be rein effect. The income level would drop to $125 million for a similar time period under the lower increase figures. The governor's latest requests call for the corporate income tax to increase from the present 5.6 per cent the following July 1. A 3.9 per cent hike in the 7 per cent financial institutions tax would be cut back to a total of 10 per cent in mid-1972.

IN THE RED

Milliken's new package—issued just 28 days before the end of the current fiscal year—comes in the wake of reports that the state will be up to $55 million in the red by June 30.

The governor said Thursday, however, that steps would be taken to close that revenue gap. He blamed the projected deficit, skyrocketing welfare costs, a civil service pay raise and lower than expected revenues for the requested higher tax.

Milliken said, however, that he was unwilling to accept a projected $45 million addition to his budgeted $469.3 welfare budget for the coming year.

"We must find means, which I am now exploring, to control these costs and we must continue to put pressure on the federal government to assume a larger share of the burden..."

VanderLaan said Senate Appropriations Chairman Charles O. Zoller, R-Benton Harbor, would introduce legislation to trim the welfare budget by up to 10 per cent. It was doubtful, however, that if such a plan made it through the Senate it would pass the Democrat-dominated House.

Milliken's revised plan also is a response to reports earlier this week that state spending plans would outstrip revenue by up to $627 million if the legislature fails to take a number of called for actions.

Milliken repeated those requests in his message, calling for repeal of the so-called Spencer-Ryan school aid plan that would cost some $180 million and continued suspension of the property and city income tax credits against the state income tax.

The governor asked the legislature also to: —Hold aid to the cities at $119.1 million, as recommended in his budget, providing a $27.7 million increase over this year's allocation.

—Pass before June 14 a proposed constitutional amendment to abolish the property tax as a source of regular school operating funds. "Voters must know before they go to the polls June 14 in school elections whether to vote special operating millages for more than one year," he explained.

—Establish and meet legislative

Svetlana, Baby Girl Doing Well

Grandchild Of Josef Stalin

SAN RAFAEL, Calif. (AP) — Svetlana Peters, the daughter of late Russian premier Josef Stalin, gave birth early today to a healthy seven-pound nine-ounce girl whom she and her husband named Olga.

Mrs. Peters is the wife of William Wesley Peters, chief architect of the Frank Lloyd Wright Foundation of Scottsdale, Ariz., and Spring Green, Wis.

DOING WELL

A family spokesman said mother and daughter are doing well.

Mrs. Peters, 45, arrived at Marin General Hospital with her husband at 11 p.m. Thursday to await the birth. The baby arrived at 2:30 a.m.

Mrs. Peters issued this statement from her hospital bed: "I'm very happy to have a healthy and pretty child. This pretty girl makes another strong link between this country and myself."

Mrs. Peters, who has two grown children by a previous marriage in the Soviet Union, and her husband reside in Scottsdale, Ariz. They have been staying with Peters' sister, Margaret Hayakawa and her husband, S.I. Hayakawa, president of San Francisco State College.

Baby Olga was given a middle name too—Margaret, a family name on Peters' side.

Mrs. Hayakawa said after a period of convalescence Mrs. Peters and her husband would move to Spring Green, Wis.

Svetlana and the architect were married in Phoenix, Ariz.,

SVETLANA PETERS

in April 1970.

THIRD MARRIAGE

Svetlana's marriage to Peters was her third. She was married at the age of 18 to Gregory Morosov, a fellow student, and her second husband was Yuri Zhdanov, a biochemist.

She defected to the United States via India, where she had gone in December 1966, to return the ashes of Brajesh Singh, a man whom Soviet officials would not permit her to marry.

Tax Boost Would Total 139 Percent

Michigan's current personal income tax rate is 2.6 per cent. Governor William Milliken today proposed today that this be temporarily raised by another 1.3 per cent to meet rising state expenses and a carry-over deficit. Earlier this year he proposed raising the rate another 2.3 per cent as part of a plan to eliminate property taxes for school revenue. The two increases would raise the personal income tax rate to 6.2 per cent, an increase of 139 per cent over the present levy.

ported for Senate debate by June 1, VanderLaan reported. NOT ENOUGH

At least one Democrat, meanwhile, said Milliken's newest tax proposal won't go far enough. "It still won't pay the bills," declared Sen. Coleman Young, D-Detroit. "We'll have to come up with more money, but he's in the clear because he didn't ask for more."

In his message to lawmakers, Milliken called for holding firm on his spending recommendations, saying, "We have an obligation to the silent taxpayer as well as to the vocal tax consumer."

Under the governor's plan, the total income tax increase would bring in some $182.5 million for the months it would be

Project Mired Deeper, Deeper

Suburban Sewage Line Suit Filed

An eight mile sewage pipeline that would bring sewage disposal service to dozens of square miles of south suburban St. Joseph wound up in court Thursday, with no prediction when it will be completed or even when construction will be resumed.

Yerington & Harris, Inc., of Benton Harbor, the contractor on the $1.5 million sewage project, filed suit against the County of Berrien and the county's sewer line engineers, Ayres, Lewis, Norris and May of Ann Arbor, to break the construction contract and win $260,000 damages.

CLAIMS MISREPRESENTATION

The contractor claims misrepresentation, breach of warranties, breach of contract and mutual mistake, with most of the claims alleging the contractor was misinformed about adverse soil conditions along the sewer route which made construction harder and more expensive than the contractor expected.

The contractor seeks $260,000 damages and asks circuit court to rescind its contract with the county. The suit says representations to the contractor about subsurface conditions used by the contractor to make his bid allegedly were erroneous and understated the amount of necessary work.

Yerington & Harris, as low bidder won a $1,566,726.41 contract with the county in December, 1969, to install 35,300 feet of 10 to 54-inch sewer line from St. Joseph to Stevensville along Hickory creek. The contractor reportedly completed 15 per cent of the job before halting April 9. The county public works board, acting on behalf of county government and the communities involved in the sewer project, voted April 28 — a few days before the contract expired — to notify the contractor his contract would be terminated for alleged nonperformance.

If the contractor failed to arrange completion of the contract within 10 days after receiving the public works board notice, the contractor's bonding company had 30 days to arrange to complete the contract, the public works board's Detroit attorney said earlier.

The notice of intent to terminate "to us was meaningless" because the contractor halted work April 9 on learning of allegations in the suit, said one of the contractor's lawyers, Grand Rapids Atty. John W. McNeil. "They don't intend to complete the contract," he added.

The suit apparently puts in limbo any arrangements by the contractor or bonding company to complete the sewage project during the pendency of the suit.

The sewage line has been mired in controversy since last summer when the contractor complained heavy sections of sewer pipe sank or shifted out of position in the Hickory creek ravine. At one point the contractor told the public works board engineers the contract could take an extra two years and $2.5 million to complete.

The engineers were "shocked" by these suggestions and

BH Schools Get Plenty Of Ideas

Proposals Range From Dissolution To 'Pen Pals'

By BRANDON BROWN
Staff Writer

BERRIEN SPRINGS — The Blue Ribbon committee charged with offering possible solutions to problems of the Benton Harbor school district last night began hearing proposals ranging from a "pen pal" system to improve student relations to total dissolution of the Benton Harbor district.

The committee also heard a State Department of Education representative indicate that racial makeup is not a major consideration in school reorganization moves. This appeared to be in virtually direct contradiction to a statement made to the committee earlier by another state education department consultant.

REPORTS DUE

At its next meeting in the Intermediate district headquarters here next Wednesday, the committee will adopt basic final majority and minority reports on proposed solutions, according to George Welch, committee chairman.

Written reports will be adopted at a later special committee meeting and turned over to the Intermediate district for transmittal to the Benton Harbor school board, Welch said.

The committee was charged in its May 4 meeting with arriving at proposals this month Welch said there have been suggestions to offer the majority and minority reports in a "straw ballot" of Benton Harbor school district residents.

Suggestions described by committeemen or read last night by Welch, most with the authors unnamed to avoid personalities, ranged from:

'PEN-PAL' CORRESPONDENCE

— A "pen pal" system of correspondence between young core-city and outer-city school children to improve attitudes between the races on the theory that children who get to know one another can get to like one another.

— To complete dissolution of the consolidated Benton Harbor Area school district by sending the north section to Coloma schools, the east section to Watervliet, the southeast section to Eau Claire, and the western and southwestern section to St. Joseph schools.

Blue Ribbon committeemen also heard letters from three real estate appraisers on property values within the Benton Harbor district. They also heard a Michigan Department of Education specialist in school reorganizations and transfers, indicate more racial make-up in an altered school district is not the sole factor the state staff examines in school reorganizations.

Several committeemen, including Mrs. Helen Fair of Seely McCord area, Atty. Henry Gleiss of Fairplain West-Northwest, and Mrs. Zelma Fellner of Sodus, reported to Welch that some residents of their areas believe the committee is a "farce," "stall" a "set-up deal" or "stacked in favor of the (Benton Harbor school) administration."

Mrs. Nancy Clark reported her residents also want Fairplain East out of the Benton Harbor district and would like to combine with neighboring districts.

REAL ESTATE DROPS

Three real estate specialists — Ralph Lavery of Niles, Sherill E. Hudson of Fairplain and R.J. Burkholz of North Shore — in general said by letter that real estate values in Fairplain and North Shore have fallen since consolidation of the Benton Harbor district. Lavery and Hudson's letters noted a sharp difference between the values of homes in Fairplain and elsewhere, and Hudson reported the buyer's

Humor Man Moves On

Personnel managers normally take a dim view of people switching employment within a short span.

They regard the job hopper as opportunistic at best and more likely as unstable.

Consequently if a job opening is substantial in any degree, the quick change artist rates the poorest chance of landing it.

Experience among employing managements generally confirms that deduction, but there are exceptions to every rule.

Ogden Nash, the best American satirist since Mark Twain, Bill Nye and Mr. Dooley departed the scene, is one shining example in that regard.

He was born 68 years ago, the son of an importer.

He attended enough schools, including a year at Harvard, to obtain a teaching certificate and for the first two years of his adulthood taught school.

Tiring of that, young Nash tried his hand in Wall Street as a salesman specializing in bonds.

Two years in the securities business, per his own word, netted the sale of one bond. "To my Godmother," he described his customer.

Next he joined an advertising agency, writing copy for the billboards that streetcars placed just above straphangers' eyes.

Either the assignment palled on him or the agency bosses failed to notice that Nash's ad copy was not exactly knocking anyone dead, the record is not too clear, but in any event at around age 25 he shifted over to Doubleday & Company, the book publishers, as a writer.

When he reached 27 in 1930 he penned some nonsensical lines which caught the eye of an editor on The New Yorker magazine.

The New Yorker editor called for more samples of his broken line style.

In the following year Nash published "Hard Lines," his book of poetry and from that point forward turned to poetry as a full time livelihood.

Forty years ago the country was in the depths of the greatest depression in its history, scarcely the atmosphere for poetry being a saleable commodity, but Nash moved through that economic swamp where greater lights had already been dimmed.

He did turn out more than poetry.

He authored three Broadway plays, "One Touch of Venus," being a smash hit. He sojourned in Hollywood as a movie script writer on two occasions and at one point served for six months as The New Yorker's managing editor.

Nash hit the spot where so many authors fall flat because he built his irony upon an idea. For example, long before ecology became a household word, he paraphrased Joyce Kilmer on an environmental problem:

"I think that I shall never see
"A billboard lovely as a tree,
"Perhaps unless the billboards fall,
"I'll never see a tree at all."

He lampooned anything and everyone leaning to the ridiculous or the pompous. He characterized his indifferent success in advertising in this manner:

"I sit in an office at 244 Madison Avenue.
And say to myself you have a responsible job, haven't you?"

Nash died Wednesday, thereby depriving the rest of us the benefit of a continuing genius.

Not too long ago, he wrote a brief comment on humor, actually the lack of it, today. His words are all the more appropriate because they parallel for today what his first lines did in an economic quandary. Said Nash:

"Today's coming writers seem to neglect humor, except for the artificial situation comedy variety.

"They all seem to go off on long, serious dissertations on the world's problems.
"I can't understand it. In these trying times we need humor to get our minds off our problems."

Slippery Export

Stockpiles of American surplus foods have been used numerous times to provide relief to starving countries. Where the surpluses have not been outright gifts, they have been sold below cost on easy credit terms.

Few Americans would object to either plan, where the recipient is truly needy and the action does not endanger domestic provisions. The "butter for Britain" program announced by the U.S. Department of Agriculture takes on a different hue.

Announced as a "limited export sales program," the butter will be provided British housewives at about half the price paid in the United States. The reason for the sale is that Britain has been unable to obtain sufficient butter from New Zealand and Australia because of drought.

U.S. butter will be provided to help relieve the shortage and depress rising butter prices in Britain. The British normally pay between 35 and 40 cents a pound, and recently have been paying 50 cents to 60 cents a pound. In March, the national average retail price in the U.S. was 88 cents a pound, a price maintained at that level by the Agriculture Department. Currently, the department pays about 69 cents a pound for all butter not sold on the market.

Consequently, the British purchaser will be guaranteed his lower price, the American consumer will pay his higher price, and the U.S. government will take a loss on its butter sales. Export sales like that we don't need.

Teen-Age Jobs

Teenagers looking for summer work or part-time jobs the rest of the year ought to be encouraged in their efforts. Not only does such employment keep idle hands busy, it provides valuable training and a practical insight into the business world.

Frequently, however, teenagers looking for work find themselves thwarted by conditions established for full time adult employment. One of these is the minimum wage.

Minimum wage laws have the effect of raising the standard of living for employees in lower pay scale classifications providing the work they are able to perform is worth the cost to their employers. Where it is not, they will remain unemployed.

In the case of young Americans with few skills and little or no experience, too often they fit into the latter category. Labor Secretary, James D. Hodgson has suggested to Congress that a lower minimum wage be established for teenagers.

This is a suggestion which could determine whether millions of young people are able to begin an early start as productive members of society.

Inside Washington

WASHINGTON—For the past four years, Philadelphia taxpayers have been shelling out $25,000 a year for a Washington lobbyist whose job was to make sure that the City of Brotherly Love was not shortchanged when it came to federal dollars.

Now it appears that it is the Philadelphia taxpayers who have been shortchanged. City Comptroller Thomas Gola has canned the lobbyist, Patrick H. McLaughlin, accusing him of altering receipts, submitting false expense vouchers and entertaining without authorization.

"From 1967 to the present, McLaughlin has received approximately $30,000 as reimbursement for alleged expenses," Gola charged. "In view of our present findings, it is estimated that more than 50 per cent of these reimbursements have been obtained through fraud." Gola ticked off examples:

—McLaughlin listed U. S. Sen. Richard A. Schweiker as a dinner expense on one of his expense account forms. Schweiker says he has never met the so-called lobbyist.

Diners Club receipts were altered upward, according to Gola. One $1.95 charge was changed to read $21.95. A $7.50 receipt became $17.50. Another for $1.50 became $38.20.

McLaughlin's expense account showed him entertaining congressmen, city officials and other Pennsylvania leaders at the National Capital Democratic Club, an exclusive watering hole on Capitol Hill. A check of club records showed that McLaughlin actually had no bar or restaurant checks during the whole period for which he asked reimbursement, Gola said.

Along with a sudden surge of optimism in Wall Street, warranted or not, has come a revival of interest in new stock issues. Analyst Robert Metz wonders, for example, how speculators or investors are going to be able to resist such items as Hookers of the Golden West, Inc.; Maybe Company; Playgirl Industries Corporation, and Room Service Italian Style, Inc. Understand immediately, please, that the companies are, respectively, a fishing club, a theatrical production enterprise, a maker of ladies' dresses and sportswear and a company franchising Italian-style food

.. And Speaking Of Your Health

We refuse to allow our children to have any sweets or candy because we feel this is what causes tooth decay.

Some parents we know feel differently about this. As a result, our children feel deprived.

What is your opinion?

Mrs. O. T. R., Iowa

Dear Mrs. R.: Many dentists believe there is an important relationship between candy and tooth decay.

Some are more firm about this than others, and insist on total abstinence from candy and lollipops.

Recent scientific studies Dr. Coleman suggest that sugar may affect the "internal" activity of teeth. Before this, it was assumed that no active process was going on inside the tooth that could cause dental caries, or decay.

The new research suggest that sugar damages the teeth not by direct contact with them, but rather after it has been digested and absorbed.

All of which indicates that a high sugar diet may weaken the teeth and make them susceptible to decay.

In the case of your children another problem exists, namely, a psychological one. They may feel deprived by your rigid, unyielding attitude. You must know that other foods, too, contain sugar after they are digested.

It is, therefore, impossible for you to eliminate all sugar from your children's diet.

A sense of moderation in attitude, coupled with good dental hygiene, can reduce dental decay and still avoid a child's feeling of deprivation.

I rarely have a hangover after drinking. I do have a hangover after taking a sleeping pill.

Is there anything I can take to make me more alert?

Mr. F. G., Ore.

Dear Mr. G.: First, be sure you're not taking a sleeping pill and alcohol at the same time: the combination can be dangerous. It's unwise to take any stimulating drug after the tranquilizing effect of a sedative or a sleeping pill.

You can start a vicious cycle from which you'll be unable to extricate yourself.

More pills to sleep, followed by more pills to stay alert, and the trap of drug dependence is in motion.

You'd be wiser to find out some of the reasons for your emotional distress and why you seek relief in alcohol or drugs.

SPEAKING OF YOUR HEALTH: Remedy speech defects early.

Dr. Lester Coleman has prepared a special booklet for readers of this column, "Alcoholism — A Family Disease." It probes this grave problem and offers hopeful advice. Contract Bridge

You are the dealer, both sides vulnerable, and have opened One Heart. Partner responds Three Hearts. What would you bid now with each of the following four hands?

1. ♠7 ♥KQ8653 ♦10 ♣AKJ72
2. ♠AK6 ♥AQ872 ♦J4 ♣AKJ3
3. ♠AJ4 ♥Q974 ♦AK8 ♣A9
4. ♠A3 ♥J9852 ♦AJ7 ♣AK4

1. Four notrump. This is the kind of hand that illustrates the fallacy of counting only high card points. There are only 13 of them here, but you nevertheless have highly promising possibilities for a slam after a three heart response. The number of tricks you can take depends largely on how many aces partner has, and to find this out you sue Blackwood.

If partner's response is five spades, showing three aces, you bid seven hearts; if he responds five hearts, showing two aces, you bid six hearts; if he responds five diamonds, showing one ace, you quit at five hearts. In all these cases you make the reasonable assumption that there are no club losers.

2. Four clubs. Slam is possible here also, but Blackwood is not the proper means of investigating it. Thus, partner might have a hand with only one ace but with sufficient values elsewhere to produce twelve ironclad tricks. A five diamond response to a Blackwood bid would not discover this.

3. Six hearts. The nature of partner's three heart bid is not important here — whether it be in the form of high cards, distribution, or both — since, with all suits under immediate control and 19 high-card points, twelve tricks are extremely likely to be made. It is true that partner may have exactly the right hand for a grand slam, but this possibility is too remote to be seriously considered. You can hardly expect him to take care of all your losers.

4. Five hearts. This is an indeterminate type of hand where, once again, you must enlist partner's cooperation. With 17 high-card points and a five-card suit, slam is a reasonable possibility. However, you should feel far from sure of twelve tricks, despite the excellent suit controls, for whether you can make a slam depends chiefly on whether partner has a minimum or maximum three heart bid. You therefore ask him to make the final decision.

BORN TODAY

The glory that was Knute Rockne is safe in the hands of Ara Raoul Parseghian, boss of the fabled Fighting Irish — a fighter whether he was "picking on" bigger boys in grade school or moving his players to get that next score.

Since becoming head coach at the Roman Catholic university in South Bend in 1964, he is one of a select group of head coaches who are better known than their players.

He was born in Akron, Ohio, in 1923, to Michael Parseghian, an immigrant from Armenia, and Amelia (Bonanne) Parseghian, a French woman whom the father had married while serving with the U.S. Army in France during World War I.

Ara is remembered as the "Jack Armstrong type" while in high school. He enrolled at the University of Akron, but left shortly afterward to enlist in the U.S. Navy, where he spent two wartime years. Returning from the service, he played halfback for Miami University at Oxford, Ohio, and in his senior year led the team to an undefeated season and himself to a tryout with the Cleveland Browns. A hardnose player, he was injured in the second game of his second season and his career ended.

He became assistant coach to Woody Hayes at Miami University in 1950 and head coach when Woody left for Ohio State the next year.

Next stop on the coaching trail was Northwestern where, under Ara, they won 36 games, losing 34, tying one and beat Notre Dame four times.

Parseghian arrived on the Notre Dame campus in January, 1964, and the Era of Ara began.

He believes "the game is not won by a pep talk on Saturday. It's won by preparation of your club from Monday until game time."

Parseghian is a Presbyterian. Others born today include Glenn H. Curtiss, Albrecht Durer and Alexander Pope.

Ungraded Program Planned For Fall Term

'Educational Breakthrough' Commencing To BH

By JIM SHANAHAN
BH City Editor

The Benton Harbor school district intends to launch an "educational breakthrough" when it takes over the Britain Avenue campus of Lake Michigan college, Supt. Mark E. Lewis announced today.

Lewis said the main building on the campus will be used next year for an ungraded program for children living in the attendance areas of Calvin Britain and Columbus schools. The campus classrooms will house nearly 400 children in an ungraded program. These children would otherwise be in grades 4-5-6.

Some 800 children in grades K-1-2-3 will be at Columbus and Britain schools in ungraded programs.

Lewis said the plans will be explained Tuesday to parents at meeting in Calvin Britain school. The meeting will start at 7:30 p.m. After questions and answers, parents will be taken on a tour of the campus building. All parents in the Calvin Britain-Columbus attendance areas are invited. The ungraded program will feature individualized instruction. Lewis said: "This type of educational program allows each child to progress as rapidly as his ability and work habits permit. The sense of defeat which comes with persistent failure is eliminated and no child is held back by slow neighbors."

The Benton Harbor school district is slated to take possession of all facilities, on the Britain campus, except the technical center, this year. The campus is owned by the school district and has been under lease to Lake Michigan college which has completed two building phases on its Napier avenue campus.

BEST SUITED

Lewis said several uses have been studied for the campus and the upper elementary program for Calvin Britain and Columbus areas seems best suited.

The Calvin Britain-Columbus area presently has 1,172 children in grades K-6 but there is classroom space at the two schools for only 825, excluding portable units. As a result students from Columbus are now distributed to six other schools — Sterne Brunson, Calvin Britain, Fairplain East, Fairplain Northeast, Fairplain West and Stump.

The ungraded plan using the college building will enable all Columbus area children to attend a school closer to home and retain the neighborhood school concept which is the policy of the board of education, Lewis said.

"The acquisition of the Britain avenue college building will permit us to educate all 1,200 students within walking distance of their homes," Lewis explained. "Parents will know exactly where their children will be going to school and will be able to develop a better relationship with the teachers. Responsibility for the child's learning growth will be more easily placed. Accountability can become a reality."

An ungraded program is now being run at Calvin Britain in lower elementary schools, but it has never been operated in the Benton Harbor district on a scale as large as is planned by Lewis.

The superintendent also said that negotiations are underway with several firms which specialize in guaranteed performance contracts. This would supplement the ungraded program in the Calvin Britain-Columbus area and be funded through state or federal grants.

'NEW' BUILDING FOR BH: The Benton Harbor school district will take over this building of 31 classrooms on the Lake Michigan college Britain avenue campus for use next school year. It plans to use the rooms for an ungraded program for upper elementary children in the Calvin Britain-

Columbus attendance areas.

BH Lives And Property At Stake In Election

Voters Will Decide Millage Monday

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first of two stories on the impact of the six-mill tax property tax proposal that Benton Harbor voters will decide Monday. This story covers police services. Tomorrow's account will be on the fire department. Polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. Monday. All registered voters are eligible to ballot.

Benton Harbor voters will ballot Monday on a six-mill tax proposal that affects their lives and property.

Failure of the millage means that 14 employees will be cut from the police department and nine from the fire department. The city currently is strapped for funds and under a legally-binding order to raise wages of employees. It can't do it without the extra millage — or laying off policemen and firemen.

Mayor Wilbert Smith says this is as crucial an election as Benton Harbor has ever faced because of the public safety aspect.

Another authority says: "No public agency is as important as your police department. The police are the front line between you and the elements that would destroy society."

"The policeman bears an awesome burden. He may have to decide within a minute whether a man is having a heart attack, is drunk, is on an overdose of drugs or is insane."

"To reduce the ranks of policemen today is tantamount to suicide."

The authority is Dr. Walter Ristler, associate dean of faculty South Bend Campus of Indiana university. Dr. Ristler is a sociologist, but he's no egghead and no stranger to the Benton Harbor area. He has taught criminology here for the past 10 years at the Michigan State university Center for Continuing Education.

HIS CREDENTIALS
His credentials include director of a detention facility; chief probation officer, consultant to the South Bend police academy.

"You can say I have labored in the field of crime."

Closer to home, Chief William McClaran tells what the cuts in the police department will mean:

1. Parking control eliminated, two jobs cut.
2. Youth bureau eliminated, four jobs cut.
3. Detective bureau curtailed, two jobs cut, four remaining.
4. Night clerk eliminated, one job.
5. Uniform patrol division services reduced, five patrolmen cut, 20 remaining.

CANT AFFORD LOSS
"It's common knowledge that we have a high crime rate and the city can ill-afford to lose policemen at this time," said McClaran.

Eight classes of serious crime rose 22 per cent last year in the city. There is a ray of hope recently: In March and April this year serious crimes dropped 15.5 per cent from 1970. They totaled 353 compared with 430 a year ago for the same period.

McClaran said: "One may assume that if visible patrols are reduced, there's a good chance that crime will increase."

The same assumption holds true for investigation of crimes: If detective ranks are thinned, there will be fewer solutions.

EFFECTS OF CUTS

Following is McClaran's description of the effects of budget cuts on police services:

A. Because of the 20 per cent cut in uniform patrolmen, we will have to eliminate the four-district concept of patrol and re-align the city into a three-district patrol pattern. With fewer men, fewer vehicles, and elimination of clerical personnel to type officers reports, we can expect a very noticeable reduction of uniform officers on patrol. At times when called for services are heavy, we will have to rank citizen requests in order of importance as determined by us.

B. The elimination of the youth bureau is most disheartening and regrettable. This bureau has been a real asset to the department and more especially the community as a whole. However, the uniformed patrol service provides primary and often emergency services, and is therefore more necessary than the youth bureau.

C. The reduction of personnel in the detective bureau is regrettable. However, uniform

SAFE AND SOUND: Lost boy and his dog were found last March and turned over to mother because the police department was on the job. Locating the mother involved the patrol division and youth bureau of Benton Harbor police department. Youth bureau will be eliminated by budget cut if tax issue fails Monday. Returning lost children to parents may become slower process.

Retiring Teacher Honored

A retirement tea and open house were held Thursday at the Instruction Materials and Audio-Visual Center of the Benton Harbor school system honoring Mrs. Ida H. Hoon for her 39 years of teaching, the last 16 in Benton Harbor.

Mrs. Hoon, a coordinator with the audio-visual center since 1966, will retire in June after a teaching career that spans the states of Iowa, California and Michigan. Since coming to Benton Harbor in 1955, she has taught at Morton, McCord, and Sterne Brunson schools, and was principal of Columbus school from 1959 to 1966.

Mrs. Hoon is a member of the administrative council and the principal's association of the Benton Harbor area schools. She is also a member of the Michigan Audio-Visual Association, the National Audio-Visual Association, Delta Kappa Gamma (a teacher's honorary society), the American Association of University Women, and the Algonquin chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Mrs. Hoon received a bachelor's degree in 1949 and a Master of Science degree in 1955, both at Drake University, Des Moines, Iowa.

Thursday's open house honoring Mrs. Hoon was arranged by her secretary, Mrs. Onalce Sanden.

Mitchell Withdraws; Supports Other Black

Warren P. Mitchell, 661 Waukonda avenue, Benton Harbor, announced last night that he is withdrawing as a candidate for the Benton Harbor board of education. Mitchell said he was withdrawing for a more popular black candidate.

Mitchell's name will still appear on the ballot June 14, however, since his petition was not withdrawn formally by the deadline yesterday. He announced the withdrawal in a speech before the Morton Hill school PTA last night.

Mitchell said today that certain groups have persuaded him that he would be hurting the chances of another black candidate if he stayed in the contest. He declined to mention the groups by name.

Both he and the groups felt it was more important to get one or more blacks on the board, he

PHI BETA KAPPA: James Lininger, 22, son of Dr. and Mrs. Richard Lininger, 2712 Highland court, St. Joseph, has been elected to Phi Beta Kappa, the nation's oldest and most prestigious academic honor society. He will receive a bachelor of arts degree in pre-medical science May 23 from De Pauw university, Greencastle, Ind. A 1967 graduate of St. Joseph high school, Lininger will enter medical school next fall at the University of Michigan.

RECOVERED LOOT: This is part of more than $10,000 worth of alleged burglary loot recovered earlier this year in coordinated effort by Benton Harbor and Benton township police. Seven persons were placed under arrest on 14 warrants. Principal investigators were Det. James Ward of city department and Det. Charles Brooks of township. Brooks has since become a uniformed patrolman as township detective ranks were sliced because of money shortage. Same fate awaits city detective bureau unless millage issue passes Monday. Fewer detectives means less followup work toward solution of crimes. (Staff photos)

Approval Of BH Tax Requested By Police Lodge

The following statement was issued by Blossomland Lodge 100, Fraternal Order of Police, in support of the six-mill tax proposal which is up for election in Benton Harbor Monday.

"The members of Blossomland Lodge 100 of the Fraternal Order of Police at a meeting held May 5, 1971 went on record favoring a yes vote in the special millage election to be held in the City of Benton Harbor on May 24th.

"Lodge 100 is made up of police officers from Benton Harbor, Benton township, Berrien county, Michigan State Police and agents from Berrien County Juvenile Court.

The members of the lodge deem it an absolute necessity that the Benton Harbor Police Department remain at its present strength in order to maintain its present level of protection and service to the citizens of Benton Harbor; anything less would be disastrous.

"A note vote on the millage request would mean that 14 Benton Harbor Police Department employees would be dismissed from the department. This would drastically reduce the police services to the citizens of the City of Benton Harbor. At its present strength, the department is barely able to meet its law enforcement obligations to the citizens. Fewer officers seen patrolling the

Spring Cleaning Help Offered By BH Bandmen

Members of Benton Harbor high school's marching band will be out in full force Saturday during their annual spring clean-up day.

Persons in the Twin Cities area who have been putting off spring cleaning can call the high school bandroom (925-5101) Saturday from noon to 5 p.m. for assistance from band members.

"We're ready to wash cars, mow lawns, trim hedges or help in house cleaning chores," Darrell Fair, band president said. Upon completion of work donations will be accepted.

Last year the band held two clean-up days earning over $2,000 to help finance the band's activities, Fair said.

Fair said the response of area residents in the past has been great and band members are hoping for another successful day Saturday.

Coloma Seniors Leave For Capital June 1

COLOMA—Members of the 1971 Coloma high senior class will journey to Washington, D.C. for a three day visit beginning June 1. Accompanying the graduating seniors will be Counselor Mr. Robert Drump, Mr. and Mrs. William Lehen, and high school principal and Mrs. Victor Wier.

Held annually, the three day visit to the nation's capital Library of Congress, Georgetown, Supreme Court, and the F.B.I. building just to mention a few.

Virtually Unchanged From Last Year

Berrien Allocation Unit Approves Millage Split

The Berrien county tax allocation board Thursday unanimously voted to adopt a tentative 1971 split of the 15-mill county real estate tax awarding virtually the same shares as last year to schools, townships and county government.

The only change from the split of 1970, said Chairman Doyle Barkmeier, was .02 mill taken from local school districts and given to the Berrien Intermediate school district to pay for increased data processing services performed for local schools. The schools had asked for this.

"I think it was more or less a hold-the-line situation this year," Barkmeier reported on the philosophy behind the new tentative millage split.

County government was expected to push this year — as it did successfully in 1969 and 1970 — to gain more millage at the expense of local school districts.

The tax allocation board members recognize county government — and other units — need for money but can't remedy this need. They hope for state tax reform that will alleviate the dollar pinch on local units of government, Barkmeier said.

Any moves for more millage at some other unit's expense likely would develop at two tax board public hearings scheduled June 1 and 2, both at 7:30 p.m. and both in the Berrien Intermediate school district headquarters at Berrien Springs.

The two hearings allow units sharing the millage to appear and testify on or protest the tentative split. If the tax board follows custom, it will name the final split for 1971 in the June 2 meeting.

Allocation board members and a subcommittee arrived at the tentative split after reviews of 1972 tentative budgets from units sharing in the split.

Barkmeier noted that this was the first year that all of the county's townships asked for one mill or more. In the past several needed less than one mill but "like every taxing unit, costs have gone up and more services are being required of townships," Barkmeier said.

The tentative 1971 split adopted by the board Thursday calls for:

County government, 5.125 mills (same as 1970); local school districts, 8.676 (down .02 from 1970, at schools' request); Intermediate school district, .199 mills (up .02 for more data processing); and townships, one mill (same).

In addition, three school districts — Coloma, Watervliet and Niles — are tentatively budgeted one mill more than other local districts because the three contain cities and have boundaries crossing the Cass or Van Buren county line.

Tentative budgets reviewed by the allocation board would have required 6.646 mills for county government; 23.5 to 31.378 mills for local school districts; .208 mills for Intermediate district and one to 2.831 mills for townships.

Berrien Planners Back West Route For US-31

Berrien county planning commissioners went on record Thursday favoring the western course of the proposed US-31 freeway between Niles and Buchanan.

The two alternatives in question, both between Niles and Buchanan, are about 9 1/2 miles long and a mile and a half apart at the farthest, Thomas Sinn, county development director said.

"As originally proposed by the state highway department, the commission felt the western route (closer to Buchanan) would provide better service to the Niles-Buchanan area," he said. "The western route also conforms more to the expected growth pattern of the area in question."

In the commission's recommendation, which will be sent to the state highway department, one modification was suggested. It proposed the interchange on the western route be switched from Mathew road to Walton road. "This change has received wide acceptance from the people of the area," Sinn said.

A public hearing will be held June 9 at 8 p.m. in Niles Ballard junior high school by the state highway department to gather opinions on whether the eastern or western alignment should be chosen. The county planning commission's recommendation will be part of that hearing.

Also Thursday, planners:

—Authorized to be published the final form of a county water and sewer plan. The plan outlines major service areas of future water and sewer systems in the county and relates them to a proposed county land use plan.

It would let communities assess their present systems for future growth and coordination with neighboring communities, and would serve as a basis for federal-state granting of funds for water and sewer.

Authorized to be printed and put into final form a zoning manual, which includes a sample zoning ordinance to be used by cities, townships and villages in the county in helping to develop zoning ordinances for their communities.

Ronald Kinney Named To Board Of Olivet College

OLIVET—Ronald F. Kinney of St. Joseph, president and founder of All-Phase Electric Supply Co. of Benton Harbor, has become the third Twin Cities resident on the board of trustees of Olivet college here.

President Ray B. Loeschner announced Kinney's appointment today.

Other local residents are Jack D. Sparks of St. Joseph, director and group vice president of Whirlpool Corp., named last October; and Albert F. Dexel of St. Joseph, assistant secretary of Auto Specialties Manufacturing Co., named six years ago.

Kinney is the son of John Kinney, Jr., who is an Olivet alumnus of the class of 1926. Ronald was graduated from John Carroll university in Cleveland in 1953 on a marketing major.

Kinney served in the U.S. Navy as a supply corps officer from 1954 to 1956 and was discharged from active duty as a lieutenant, j.g., later leaving the Naval Reserve as a full lieutenant in 1960.

RONALD F. KINNEY

The electric supply firm he founded operates in eight locations in western Michigan and northern Indiana. Kinney is active in civic affairs and is a member of the board of directors of Inter-City bank, a member of Rotary club, Berrien Hills Country club and St. Joseph Catholic church, and is president of the YWCA and commodity committee chairman of the National Association of Electrical Distributors.

He is married and the father of six.

New Firm Will Own Atom Plant

LANSING, Mich. (AP)—The Michigan Public Service Commission has approved a $208 million stock and note transfer that clears the way for a new corporation to take over a nuclear power plant being built south of Benton Harbor.

Indiana & Michigan Power Co., a subsidiary of Indiana & Michigan Electric Co. at Fort Wayne, Ind., will take over the Cook Nuclear Generating Plant, scheduled to be completed in 1973 near Bridgman, 10 miles south of Benton Harbor.

Terms of the exchange include transfer of $130 million worth of 10-year promissory notes to I & M Electric, plus issuance of 1.5 million shares of common stock valued at $46.66 each.

Total cost of the completed plant was estimated at $400 million.

BH Man Graduates From Regis

J. Joseph Daly, son of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Daly, Riverside road, Benton Harbor, has received a bachelor of science degree from Regis College in Denver, Colo.

Daly, 22, majored in economics at Regis and intends to enter Notre Dame Law school this fall. One of 142 candidates receiving degrees at Regis, Daly graduated from Assumption high school in Windsor, Ontario.

COLOMA FESTIVAL

Request Goes Out For Volunteers

COLOMA—An invitation to Coloma area residents interested in helping work on events during the Coloma Gladiolus Festival Aug. 6-8 was issued today by Festival President Wes Bexson.

Bexson said, "We are planning one of the biggest three-day events in our community this year, and in order to make these plans materialize we need volunteers."

According to Bexson, help is needed from now through the end of the festival. Several events are presently being worked on including a variety show, fireworks display, arts and crafts program in addition to the parade.

Bexson added, "It would be hard to say how much time would be needed by the volunteers, but it would not be so time-consuming that it would use up all their free time."

Most of the volunteers would assist festival chairmen for each of the special events.

"This festival is a community project, and we would welcome all the volunteer help we can get to make this truly a bigger and better festival for everyone," said Bexson.

Volunteers, regardless of age, interested in working on the community project and wishing to participate in the formation of this year's festival may contact Bexson at P. O. Box 452, Coloma.

Coloma Doctor To Leave

COLOMA — Dr. E. V. Sergeant has announced he plans to leave the Coloma area at the end of this year, after 26 years of practice.

Dr. Sergeant, 66, presently has his office at 460 Paw Paw up for sale, and is hoping that a doctor will take over his practice. He plans on going to Sun City, Ariz.

With the announcement, the Coloma area will face prospects of having only one doctor practicing in a community of 1,406 persons — Dr. Rolando Fajardo.

Dr. Sergeant said, "I've been looking for a doctor to take over my practice for months, and I've advertised in medical magazines but so far I haven't received any results."

Dr. Sergeant sees between 75 to 100 patients a day, and still makes house calls.

First opening his practice on Feb. 1, 1945, Dr. Sergeant hasn't missed a day of work. He came to Coloma from Des Plaines, Ill., where he practiced for 13 years.

"I'll miss Coloma," said Dr. Sergeant, "but I plan on taking up a practice in Sun City."

Dr. Sergeant said Sun City is a community of 15,000 persons and is located 18 miles from Phoenix. "They have a 30 acre lake, and six golf courses, and I plan to enjoy the pleasant weather there."

Should Dr. Sergeant sell his office before the end of the year, he plans to find a temporary office in the Coloma area until the end of the year.

Since first arriving in Coloma, Dr. Sergeant has been the Coloma Comets school physician and also physician for the Covert Bulldog team for some 10 years.

PAW PAW LAKE

Sewage Bond Sale Decisions Tonight

COLOMA — Four governmental units comprising the Paw Paw Lake Sewage Planning commission will meet separately tonight at 7:30 p.m. to act on contracts covering the proposed bond sale needed in the $11 million sewage treatment system.

Special meetings will be held at Coloma and Watervliet city halls and at the Watervliet and Coloma Township halls.

Each municipal planning commission chairman, will visit each meeting to collect the contracts.

The contracts will spell out the city's and township's obligation in repayment and give approval for the Berrien Public Works board to handle the actual sale.

Bonds amounting to $5 million are to be sold to help pay for the system which is to serve the cities and townships of Coloma and Watervliet. The remaining $6 million is to come from state and federal grants.

PLANS TO RETIRE: Dr. E. V. Sergeant, has announced he plans to retire from his Coloma practice at the end of this year to move to Sun City, Ariz. He said he plans to take up practice there. Kept busy daily with between 75 to 100 patients, Dr. Sergeant presently has his office building up for sale. (Cliff Stevens photo)

CONVICTED

Heroin Salesman Faces Long Term

A 39-year-old Benton Harborite faces a prison sentence of 20 years minimum following his conviction by jury Thursday in Berrien circuit court on a charge of selling heroin.

Jurors in the court of Judge Karl F. Zick ended a two-day trial for Maurice Culley Bland, of 818 High street, with a verdict of guilty following 2 1/2 hours of deliberation.

Heroin sale conviction carries a 20-year mandatory minimum prison sentence and up to life for the maximum.

Judge Zick ordered Bland's $2,500 bond revoked and ordered him jailed until sentence.

Bland under oath denied knowing two key prosecution witnesses, denied making the sale and testified those who identified him must be mistaken.

Two key prosecution witnesses, who Assistant Prosecutor Hugh Black asked not to be identified because they will be used in future drug cases, testified they witnessed or took part in a sale by Bland of two bags of heroin for $10 on Oct. 23, 1970, in Benton township.

Wants Root's Seat

Mattawan Farmer Seeks Nomination

By STEVE McQUOWN

PAW PAW — A Mattawan man has announced that he will seek the Republican nomination as candidate for the state representative seat of the late Edson V. Root, Bangor, who died May 7.

Francis Finch, 53, a successful farmer and life-long resident of Van Buren county, became the first person to formally declare his candidacy.

The primary election is to be held June 24 and the election itself July 15.

The 54th district which Root held for 10 terms is made up of all of Van Buren county and 12 townships in Allegan county.

Republican officials in Van Buren say there may be perhaps four or five other Republicans who can be considered as possible candidates at this time.

Among them are:

County Treasurer A. A. (Eddie) Smith of South Haven; Bela Kennedy, Bangor, a farmer and sales manager for a agricultural chemical firm; David Peterson, South Haven, an attorney; James Stevens of Paw Paw.

In Allegan county, John Watts, 25, of Fennville, a former legislative assistant to former State Senator Lorraine Beebe and presently a candidate for a law degree, appears certain of announcing his candidacy, according to Republican sources.

While there may be a primary battle among Republicans, Democratic sources in Van Buren at this time say that a Democrat primary runoff does not seem probable.

Finch was a delegate to the 1961-62 Michigan Constitutional convention where he served on the local government and rules and resolutions committee.

He served on the Van Buren county Farm Bureau board of directors for five years, three of which he was county president, and from 1965 to 1967 was on the board of directors of the Michigan Farm Bureau representing Van Buren, Berrien, Cass, Kalamazoo and St. Joseph counties.

He is a member of the Allegan county Christmas Tree Growers association and has served as their director on the board of the state association for the past six years.

He has also been a member of the Almena township board, the township zoning board of appeals and the county Republican committee.

He and his wife Gerry reside on their farm in Almena township.

Deadline for filing nominations is June 4.

Nominations must be filed at the Secretary of State's office in Lansing and may be filed either through nominating petitions or by a $100 fee.

Republican nominating petitions require at least 131 signatures and Democratic petitions at least 98, according to figures from Van Buren County Clerk Thomas Kiefer.

The deadline for withdrawing nominations is June 7.

Children's Movie Hour At Sodus

SODUS — The Sodus Township library on Naomi road will sponsor its first children's movie hour from 2:30-3:30 p.m. tomorrow.
